SINGLETON WILD AND INEFFECTIVE

And Cobblers Take Second Game of Season From Maysville By The Score of 7 to 4.

In revenge for having been defeated in the open Portsmouth came back strong Thursday and defeated the locals by the score of 7 to 3.

The game was a slow and draggy affair and very few good plays were pulled to keep the fans interested.

Singleton pitched the entire game for Maysville, but was very wild and his offerings were hit all over the lot. Ferguson pitched good ball for the visitors except in the second inning when Maysville made it only two runs when Tinin and Jones walked. Kelly forced Tinin at third. Mueller tripled scoring Jones and Kelly. Dougan walked. Singleton scored Mueller with a single. This ended the scoring as the next two men were out.

The box score follows:

HEAR YEUELL! WHY?

If you have not heard Evangelist Yeuell you should do so. Maysville has not had in her midst a speaker of his ability for many a day. He has equaled and surpassed in his oratorical flights any of the prominent ministers and lectures who have graced a Maysville platform. He is a most interesting story-teller and in the course of his evening's address, tells many stories.

He makes the details stand out clearly but does not tire you while doing so. There are large numbers of every class of Maysville citizens who are now enjoying him. The same faces are seen in the audiences nightly. Having heard him once people want to hear him again. He feeds the mind as well as pleases the ear. The high school scholars and those of the grades, will find it to their advantage to hear Mr. Yeuell, for he makes such frequent references to the choice things in literature and gives his reading with such expression. Arrangements are now being made to have a special school night sometime next week. The young people of this city should be given this opportunity to hear a man of Mr. Yeuell's ability and prominence. He has appeared regularly on the Chautauqua platform. He is classed by the management of Lyceum's courses, with the best lecturers of this country.

The place of meeting makes it easy for any one to attend with perfect freedom. The building is commodious and the character of the services, the very highest. Therefore if you have not heard Yeuell, hear him tonight. The subject tonight (Friday) is "The Cry of the Grouch."

On Saturday evening he gives his illustrated lecture on "Sunny Italy and the Romaner." A silver offering will be received at the door. This lecture is highly indorsed by those who have heard it.

On Saturday evening Mr. Yeuell will give his first illustrated lecture. This is one of his regular Chautauqua lectures. There will be some 3,000 feet of moving picture films used besides many highly colored slides which are from pictures taken by himself while in Italy. There will be a silver offering taken at the door.

GRAND ENCAMPMENT OF L. O. O. F. TO MEET AT SOMERSET

The Grand Encampment of the Kentucky L. O. O. F. will convene on Wednesday of next week at Somerset. Mr. James Childs, representing Pisgah Encampment No. 9 of this city, will attend the meeting and will be advanced from Grand Senior Warden to Grand High Priest, which is the second highest in the Grand Encampment. The meeting will be held at Frankfort next year.

Chief of Police James Mackey leaves today for a ten days' vacation at Canton, Ohio. During his absence Officer Dudley Fizer will act as chief.

To satisfy a claim E. H. Bryant and B. D. Bryant against George Dale and H. Lopinsky, Constable James McNamara sold a colt at public auction at the farm of Mr. Jesse Calvert in the county Wednesday afternoon to Mr. Calvert for $32.50.

Miss Mildred Rains of Riverview is on an extended visit in Missouri, at present she is with her former room mate at Christian College, Miss Lucile Ford, in Excelsior Springs, later she will visit school mates in Kansas City and other points.

Rev. W. J. Loos of Maysalek is spending a few days in the city attending the Yeuell meetings at the Grovers' Warehouse.

ELECTION VALID

And $200,000 Road Bond Issue Is Now In Full Force and Effect, Says Commissioner Terrell.

State Road Commissioner R. C. Terrell of Frankfort met with the Mason County Road Commissioners in the Chamber of Commerce office and gave them some important information in regard to the good roads proposition.

He said that it was not necessary to build model roads in order to receive state aid; that proper resurfacing with not less than six inches of broken stone and proper crowning for drainage was all that was necessary when a good base was already in existence on the road. Roads or sections of roads with defective or no base would have to be reconstructed entirely.

He said that it would not be prudent to call another election at this time as the previous election that carried for $200,000 was in full force and effect, and that another election now for the same amount would mean $400,000, and that amount is not necessary for proper construction of roads.

Acting upon the advice of Mr. Terrell the Commission proposes to test the question of the validity of the first election through the court, which can be done before the date set for the election, June 24. If the court holds that the first election valid the election on the above mentioned date will be called off.

THOMAS P. BOONE

Re-elected as Secretary Manager of the Maysville Chamber of Commerce—Is Doing Good Work Here.

The Board of Directors of the Maysville Chamber of Commerce has re-elected Mr. Thomas P. Boone as Secretary-Manager of that institution for an indefinite length of time. Mr. Boone has been offered a better position in a larger city but prefers to stay in Maysville and continue the good work he has started.

Mr. Boone was elected to this office when the Chamber of Commerce was organized six months ago and since that time he has been untiring in his efforts to work for a "Greater Maysville." Not only has he put a number of important matters on a more business-like basis, but he has also looked after the smaller things that came before the Chamber, and nothing has been slighted.

During his stay here he has become thoroughly acquainted with the business men and the methods of doing business and aside from working for the common good of the Chamber has helped quite a few with just a word dropped here and there, making everyone feel that he is personally interested in his business and anxious to see that the maximum amount of business be done through efficiency and co-operation.

The Chamber of Commerce is becoming stronger every day and under the leadership of Mr. Boone is sure to accomplish much.

WAR DEMONSTRATES VALUE OF PROTECTIVE TARIFF

Laborers in the hundreds of mills in this country which are engaged in supplying the European belligerents with munitions of war, handling sub-contracts, or indirectly benefiting from the abnormal conditions caused by the European holocaust, are getting a concrete example of what it means to their pay envelopes if the mills in which they labor are running at full time, full capacity. Wages were never so high in our history.

The Democratic theory, as expounded by Mr. Underwood in presenting his law to Congress, was to provide rates of duty so low that they would encourage the importation of foreign-made goods to an extent which would cause active importation with goods made in America. These increased importations were expected to yield increased revenues even at the lower duties. Underwood's desire was to split our domestic market "fifty-fifty" between American and foreign producers.

The Underwood idea became in part a condition and not a theory very shortly after the passage of the Democratic law, and imports for consumption (according to Secretary Redfield's figures, (nine months) $145,000,000 over the record for the period October 1, 1912, to June 30, 1913, under the Republican tariff law, or at the rate of over $16,000,000 a month. But the ratio of duties to imports had been so reduced by the Democratic law that in spite of the huge increase in the volume of imports the revenues declined so alarmingly that Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo was prompted to befuddle the public by devising an entirely new system of accounting, and no sooner did the war break out than the Democrats seized upon that opportunity to saddle us with a "war tax" to hide the deficiencies of their tariff law.

The Republican policy of protection is designed to give our manufacturers first consideration in our home market. If the foreigners wish to enter our market they must pay rates of duty measured by the difference between the very low wages paid by them to labor and the wages we pay to our workmen. That the fact that Republican tariff laws, without injuring American industries and putting laboring men out of employment, have been uniformly adequate revenue producers. They have given our workmen jobs and have not subtracted from their pay-checks by levying direct taxes.

The Democratic argument of "goods for goods" is unsound under the prevailing differences in labor costs. Let the foreigners take our goods and balance the account with cash. The man who sells groceries may pay out part of his net profits for clothes, rent, etc., but he would be a poor business man who could not make his business credit him with a bank account. If American manufacturers can be assured of the home market they can proceed confidently to the conquest of foreign markets. This means that they can keep the mills going at full blast, keep labor continuously employed and the resulting higher efficiency will mean better wages and bigger dividends, and thousands of small stockholders should appreciate this.

If running at full capacity results in the piling up of a surplus let our manufacturers sell it abroad, at reduced prices, if necessary to capture foreign trade. It will hurt nobody but our competitors, and trade has not yet reached the philanthropic stage. When commercial war and actual war have ceased we will disarm and have free trade, but the time is not yet. Bidding the arrivals of that Utopian period it will be good horse sense to have a party in power which will protect American industries and uphold American honor, and that party is most emphatically not the Democratic party. The wise workmen will look to the future and vote the Republican ticket this fall.

OUR REGULAR ARMY.

(Philadelphia Ledger.)

At his very prime Marshal Murat never had better cavalry than Colonel George A. Dodd has led into Mexico. And no infantry from Caesar's Tenth Legion down excelled the regular infantry of the United States army.

The American regular isn't a man. He is an institution. For staying put he has no peer. He never gets excited, never wavers, never loses his head, and never runs in the wrong direction.

When the Civil war came and many southern army officers resigned to go with the Confederacy, the regular in the ranks from no matter where stuck to the old flag and he fought through the war for the Union.

A superintendent of West Point once observed: "In the American army there is a dead level of competency." The smallest regular army which the United States has had in the 141 years since Washington created the first regular or Continental army, was eighty men.

Those eighty were artillerymen, being the very battery which Alexander Hamilton had recruited in 1776. A year after the revolution ended, Congress enacted on June 2, 1784, a law to disband the whole Continental army with the exception of twenty-five men to guard the military stores at Ft. Pitt, which is now Pittsburgh, and fifty-five men to guard the military stores at West Point.

There was to be no officer with rank above a captain. This very slender military link of eighty men is all that joins our regular army of today with the Continental army of Washington, but that link, weak as it became, was never broken.

That small organization of troops in the pay of the United States never lost its identity, and it is today, Company F, Fourth Regiment of Artillery, U. S. A. It is exactly as old as our national independence.

There was Indian trouble on the northwest frontier at the time the Continental or regular army was disbanded, so Congress asked Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut and New Jersey to raise 700 militiamen to defend the settlers.

Pennsylvania contributed 260, which was the largest state quota. It was, however, only a sad makeshift, and in April, 1785, a new regiment of regular troops was organized.

That regiment has retained its identity ever since, and is now the Third Regiment of United States Infantry—the oldest regiment in our army.

It was always found that when real trouble arrived the militia failed to meet the crisis, and that regular troops had to be called into being. Between the Revolution and the founding of our present government under the constitution, the chief military officer was called "Secretary of War." General Lincoln was the first to hold that office, being succeeded by General Knox. When Washington formed his cabinet he made Knox his first Secretary of War.

BITTER REBUKE HANDED DEMOCRATS ON POINT OF CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

Washington, D. C.—The Republican Publicity Association, through its president, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., gives out the following statement at its Washington headquarters:

"Much of the extravagance and most of the inefficiency of the public service under the present administration, is due to violation of the principle of civil service reform and disregard of the spirit and letter of the classified civil service law.

"Although the Democratic party was pledged in its platform to maintenance of the merit system in government service, and although President Wilson, as a former officer of the Civil Service Reform League, was pledged to the practice of the principles he had professed, yet from the day of its inauguration, this administration ignored its pledges on this subject, and has been utterly oblivious to the demoralizing effect of its policy upon government employees and government service.

"At every opportunity the Democratic Congress has set aside the provisions of the classified civil service law and filled government positions in accordance with the theory that 'to the victors belong the spoils.'

"The first act passed by the new administration was at a special session called for the revision of the tariff and that law, the Democratic party exempted from the civil service regulations the deputy collectors to be employed in the collection of the new internal revenue taxes.

"In the first general deficiency bill a provision was inserted exempting from the classified service the employees of Customs Collectors and United States Marshals.

"The Federal Reserve Bank Law provided that appointees of the board should be exempt from the classified competitive test.

"Similar provisions were made regarding the Federal Trade Commission, and commercial attaches, and presumably will be in the case of a tariff commission if such a body shall be created by this administration.

"In classifying 45,000 fourth-class postoffices, this administration pretended to make appointments as the result of a competitive test; and numerous appointments have been made in the rural delivery service, purporting to be conducted in accordance with the spirit of the civil service law, but the fact that the list of eligibles was submitted to Democratic Congressmen or others holding partisan positions, together with the fact that the Department declines to permit inspection of the records, leaves no room for doubt that partisanship rather than merit has been the controlling factor in determining appointments.

Every postoffice inspector appointed by this administration is a Democrat.

"In the last administration such exclusive partisanship in the postal service did not prevail. Where four-class postoffices had been placed in the classified service under the Republican administration, the highest man on the eligible list after examination was given the appointment, even to the extent of appointing as postmaster a man who was chairman of the Democratic central county committee. The man who is today General Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, is a Democrat and was a postoffice inspector in charge of a division under the Republican administration.

The present chief inspector of the Postoffice Department is a Democrat and was chief of the division of Salaries and Allowances under the last administration. Many other Democrats were given positions of responsibility under the Republican administration.

"Not one of the heads of bureaus in the postoffice department under the present administration had a day's experience in the postal service prior to the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson.

"This overthrow of the merit system has given us the poorest mail service within the recollection of this generation. Delay in transmission and delivery of mail has been embarrassing to business men in all parts of the United States. Postal employees have naturally lost interest in their work at the same time that they have become convinced that their superiors are more interested in the distribution of political rewards than they are in the maintenance of a high standard of service.

"While it is probable that the administration will ultimately pose as a convert to the principle of civil service reform, just as it has posed as a convert to preparedness, to a tariff commission, and various other policies, and will endeavor to cover up its shortcomings in government service by the plea that the President 'kept us out of war,' yet when the voters of the country come to judge this administration by its entire record, it is hardly credible that they will overlook this and other flagrant violations of the confidence of the public, the betrayal of the public welfare, and the destruction of high standards of public ethics."

Maysville Citizens Should Read and Heed This Advice

Kidney trouble is dangerous and often fatal. Don't experiment with something new and untried.

Use a tested kidney remedy. Begin with Doan's Kidney Pills. Used in kidney troubles 50 years. Recommended here and everywhere.

A Maysville citizen's statement forms convincing proof. It's local testimony—it can be investigated.

Henry Callenstein, blacksmith, Popular street, Maysville, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the best of kidney medicines. I have used different kinds and no other has ever equaled this one. When my kidneys were out of order and I had pain in my back, I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them. They stopped the pains and my kidneys became strong. The cure has been permanent."

NORTHERN KENTUCKY

Gets Big Representation on Roster of Knights of Columbus.

Louisville, Ky., May 10—With the close of the state convention of the Knights of Columbus the delegates returned home Wednesday, after a short but strenuous session. Northern Kentucky was very much in evidence, especially in the elections, as their candidate for State Deputy of the order, Jas. J. O'Brien, Lexington, defeated the incumbent, A. B. Oberst, Owensboro, and D. M. Cooper, Elizabethtown, on the first ballot.

Covington Council was honored by having Edward J. Tracey elected State Advocate over W. T. Drury, Morganfield, the latter being the incumbent for the past three years. Another Northern Kentucky victory was the election of Frank O'Donnell, Maysville as delegate to the Supreme Convention at Davenport, Iowa, in August.

George Buckley, Louisville, as State Secretary; Henry Whelan, Bardonia, as State Treasurer; Dr. J. M. O'Connor, Elizabethtown, as Warden, and Rev. J. T. Knue, McQuady, as Chaplain, succeed themselves.

The missionary movement in Kentucky, inaugurated two years ago by the State Council, was enthusiastically approved and its continuance put on a firmer basis.

HOBSON DEFEATED

Birmingham, Ala., May 10—Unofficial complete returns tonight from yesterday's Democratic primary gave William B. Bankhead a majority of 153 over former representative Richmond P. Hobson for the nomination for Congress in the tenth Alabama district. Hobson claimed the nomination by a majority of 63 and announced he would contest if the official count showed otherwise.

LOOT IN CHURCHES

Dublin, May 10—Churches are being used by looters as convenient depositories for their loot and the clergy is cooperating with the authorities in an endeavor to restore the articles to their owners.

All residents of Byers, Kas., have united in a pledge not to drink, smoke or chew for one year. It is suspected that this year's crop of cheerful lars in this town is going to be a record-breaker.

Retrospection ceases in middle age, to be resumed on the downward stroke.

PROPOSE CAMPAIGN TO RAISE FIVE MILLION FOR MISSIONS

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 10.—A proposal to raise $5,000,000 by a world-wide campaign for foreign mission purposes was endorsed today by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church which adopted a resolution setting aside the year 1918 and 1919 as centennial thanksgiving year for the observance of the centennial of this branch of church activity. The board of foreign missions was authorized to prepare plans for celebrations in every Methodist church in the world.

Definite plans for reorganization of the European mission field must be delayed until the close of the war, according to a statement submitted by the foreign delegates who secured authorization for the appointment of a commission to study the religious conditions resulting from the conflict and to report in 1920.

The board of Bishops to which was referred the proposed new ritual today began consideration of the form of service which was prepared by a committee appointed in 1912. Owing to the many changes of verbiage, considerable difference of opinion is said to exist and an early report is not expected.

Symptoms of a Run-down Condition We have a Remedy.

We ask every weak, run-down person in Maysville to try our Vinol, with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not re-establish their health. Letters like the following give us confidence:—

"I am in the millinery business and on my feet most of the time. I got so weak and run-down that I lost my appetite and was unable to sleep, had a severe chronic cold and lost my color. I learned about Vinol through a friend, and within three weeks after taking it I noticed an improvement, and soon gained in weight, health and strength. I am recommending Vinol to my friends and they also speak highly of it." Catherine Hoar, West Chester, N. Y.

In hundreds of cases where old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions have failed to restore strength and health, Vinol has succeeded, because while it contains all the curatives by useless grease and oil.

MAYOR DER PROBE

Washington, May 10.—The Federal Trade Commission announced today that if there was any further raise in the price of anthracite coal the commission would take up with the department of justice the question of an investigation of the anthracite industry. The department had suggested the inquiry if prices are raised following the wage advance just given to anthracite workers.

PROGRESSIVES

Ready to Meet G. O. P. Half Way—Chairman Perkins Says Convention Will Not Insist on Roosevelt.

New York, May 10.—The upprogressive party will not insist upon the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for president of the United States, if the Republicans will name a candidate at Chicago "who stands for progressive principles and is able to put them through" according to a statement here tonight by George W. Perkins, after a meeting of the executive committee of the Progressive national committee.

"We, of course are for Col. Roosevelt," declared Mr. Perkins, "and shall suggest his name to the Republicans. If they reply that they will not agree on the Colonel, we shall ask them to name us their man, who ought to be nearly as unanimous a choice as our man is. We are willing to be reasonable for the sake of harmony."

Mr. Perkins' statement supplemented a statement issued by the executive committee in which it said:

Confidence of Merger

"If the Republican convention is responsive to the patriotic spirit that roused the Republican party into being and made it dominant for half a century, it will meet this crisis in a spirit of broad patriotism that rises above partisanship. Should the effort fail, the responsibility for the result will not rest on the Progressive convention but will rest on other shoulders than ours."

"In this turning point in world history, we will not stick on details. We will lay aside partisanship and prejudices but we will never surrender the principles for which we stand and have stood and will follow only a leader who we know stands for them and is able to put them through. We are for peace but not for peace at any price."

It was said that the Republicans and Independent voters in general had responded "understandingly to the sentiments expressed" in the statement issued in January by the Progressive national committee which, in effect, was an appeal for Republicans and Progressives to "get together."

Loss of Sight of Issues

It was added that "there is an element in the Republican party leadership which seems to be giving more thought and attention to what that party is against, and whom it is against, than to what it is for and whom it is for. Therefore, we again call attention to our Chicago statement as to the inevitable outcome of a failure to reach a common understanding."

"Reports from the Progressive organization throughout the country," the executive committee's statement said, "show that the American people have become impatient of leaders who hold that comfort, prosperity and material welfare are above honor, self-sacrifice and patriotism; that we need a reawakening of our elder Americanism, of our belief in those things that our country and our flag stand for; that our people are seeking a leadership of the highest order and most courageous character—leadership that will draft to itself for the country's benefit the unselfish and patriotic service of our ablest citizens. Our people are demanding that principles and policies shall be proclaimed and carried out by a man who has the wisdom to formulate them and the manhood to uphold them."

Send Complete Delegations

Complete delegations from every state will attend the Progressive national convention which will be held at Chicago simultaneously with the Republican national convention, it was announced. A number of states according to the committeemen, are planning to send double delegations, allowing each delegate a half vote. The total number of delegates will be upward of 1,000. The program for the temporary organization of the convention will be announced next week.

After the forenoon session of the committee, George Perkins entertained the members at luncheon. Colonel Roosevelt was present and sat at the head of the table. Others attending were: Walter F. Brown of Ohio; Herbert Knox Smith, of Connecticut; Matthew Hale, of Massachusetts; H. P. Gardner of Maine; W. D. Dodge, of Colorado; Harold L. Icke, of Illinois; Henry L. Stoddard and Oscar S. Straus of New York; William Flinn and E. A. Van Valkenburg, of Pennsylvania, and F. B. Harris of Illinois.

GIRL COULD NOT WORK

How She Was Relieved from Pain by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and when my periods came I had to stay at home from work and suffer for a long time. One day a woman came to our house and asked my mother why I was suffering. Mother told her that I suffered every month and she said, 'Why don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My mother bought it and the next month I was so well that I worked all the month without staying at home a day. I am in good health now and have told lots of girls about it."—Miss CLARICE MORRIS, 22 Russell Street, Taunton, Mass.

Thousands of girls suffer in silence every month rather than consult a physician. If girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a safe and pure remedy made from roots and herbs, much suffering might be avoided.

HOW WASHINGTON CLUB LANDED PITCHER JOHNSON.

The real story of how the Washington club obtained Walter Johnson, recognized as the greatest pitcher in the game today, has never really been told. There have been stories that Cliff Blankenship discovered him out at Weiser, Ida., after watching him pitch. Another story was to the effect that Joe Cantillon had a friend who tipped him off, but during the recent American League meeting in New York President Ben Minor related the true facts of the coming of Walter Johnson to the Washington club in 1907. Mr. Minor had a friend who was living in New York.

His name is John McCoy. He made frequent trips to Idaho, where he had interests, and one day saw Walter Johnson pitching for his team. He was impressed with the youngster, and, stopping off at Washington on route east, he dropped in to see Mr. Minor and told him of Johnson. Men in baseball always get a lot of tips on phenoms, and Mr. Minor of the Washington club did not give Walter Johnson serious thought at the time. In a month or so McCoy again stopped off in Washington and brought clippings showing that Johnson had struck out twenty-two men at Weiser. This, of course, interested Minor, and he took the clippings and handed them to Joe Cantillon, then manager of the team. Joe naturally was amused at the record, and he figured that some time with some one and have the boy looked over.

There the matter stood for several weeks, when McCoy again dropped in on Minor and asked if anything had been done about getting Johnson. He was told that there had not, and then he said, "Look here, Ben; John I. Taylor of the Boston club is a pretty good friend of mine and unless you get this kid right away I will tell him to send for him." There and then Minor got into communication with Cantillon. Blankenship had hurt his finger and could not play, so Minor insisted that he be sent to Weiser and bring Johnson to Washington where he could be looked over. Within ten days Blankenship returned with Johnson. To show that Johnson was a wise business man, even at that time, he insisted on being guaranteed transportation back to his home in California if he did not make good. He proved he had the making of a great pitcher then, and when the season was over he called attention to the agreement as to his transportation, making the point that if the club was willing to pay it in the event he had failed it surely should be willing to do so seeing that it had decided to keep him, and he carried his point.

GRADUATING EXERCISES A DECEIVED SUCCESS

The commencement exercises of the Vanceburg High School, were held in the auditorium of the school building on the evening of May 5th. The graduating class consisted of the following: Misses Effie Fannin, Vivian Neal, Nancy Sullivan, Messrs. Foster Adams, Russel Halbert and Horace Purdon. The music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Ella Berry, of Quincy, and Miss Anderson, of Portsmouth, and consisted of solos and duets. The singing was considered a treat by all who heard them, and the accompaniment in each case was also very fine.

PARTIAL WITHDRAWAL

Objective Urged By Carranza's General—Prolonged Negotiations Will Give Time to Gather Troops.

El Paso, Texas, May 10.—Negotiations over American troop dispositions in Mexico made no progress today. General Obregon awaited word from General Carranza as to the course he is now to pursue and when instructions did not come, a conference which had been proposed for this morning was postponed until tomorrow.

Falling in their efforts to have a definite date of withdrawal set, it was reported tonight that the Mexican government may next try to have part of the American troops taken out at once, leaving the remainder to cooperate with the forces of the de facto government in the pursuit of Villa groups.

Pershing Forces Too Large

The report, which could not be confirmed, had it that the Mexicans believe the size of General Pershing's army is out of all proportions to its mission—the extermination of a few hundred bandits—and that a much smaller force would answer the purpose. A partial withdrawal, it is argued, would have a good political influence in Mexico.

In the absence of new proposals, the situation now stands as follows:

General Hugh L. Scott and Frederick Funston are unalterably opposed to any agreement which sets a date for American withdrawal from Mexico. The American conferees are listening to all proposals the Mexican Minister of War may make while waiting for him to realize that the intentions of the American government in Mexico are irrevocable.

In the meantime, General Obregon's proposal for a joint troop patrol of the border is not given serious consideration, although it was reported to Washington.

The American conferees, it is said, doubt if the facts government can muster sufficient forces to form a patrol of the sort outlined and at the same time carry off its campaign against the Zapata and Villa forces.

While the situation is still regarded as serious here, one circumstance points to an easing of the tension. Although General Funston is urgently needed at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, to direct the mobilization and disposition of the additional troops ordered to the border, General Scott advised that he remain here to take part in the conference. It was pointed out that the American chief of staff hardly would keep his fellow conferees away from his headquarters if the situation imperatively demanded any important military preparations.

Drawing in Columns

In the meantime the American military chiefs are understood to have taken additional steps to guard against eventualities. General Pershing is said to have received orders to materially lessen his line of communication and to draw in all scattered detachments. Colonia Dublan is reported to be the objective of the northward retreating columns.

It has been suggested in some quarters that the delay in the present negotiations is not a bad thing since it will permit completion of the new army and militia movements before any break—if one comes—occurs. Army men point out that this is hardly an advantage since the Mexicans have the same opportunity to perfect their plans.

TOO SALTY FOR CANNIBALS

(Chicago Herald)

Salt is the greatest enemy of mankind, according to Dr. Charles Woodward, of the Illinois State Electric Medical Society, which is holding its forty-sixth annual convention at the Hotel LaSalle. Every modern human being is pickled in brine until his health is ruined and he is brought to an untimely grave. We eat so much salt that the cannibals, with a natural appetite, cannot eat us.

"The idea that we must fill every article of food with salt is a most dangerous fallacy," said Dr. Woodward. "Every man needs 20 grains of salt in a day—he gets about 400. This means that his tissues are invaded by a surplus of salt, which cannot be eliminated. The result is a hundred ailments. The excess salt and nothing else, for instance, causes old people to have such brittle bones that if they stumble over something they break a leg or an arm."

"The human race has become the victim of salt. In a single bowl of restaurant soup the poor devil who has to eat it gets at least five times as much salt as he should have in a whole day. The uncivilized man will not touch our food—cannot eat our delicacies because they are too salty. The South Sea Island cannibals never eat a white man, and the explanation given by them is that the white men are too salty."

SPLENDID ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR ENTERTAINING CONFEDERATE VETERANS AT BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Ala.—(Special)—If anyone happens to think that Birmingham intends to segregate the old veterans that are the guests of the city at the permanent camp without entertainment and without every care one has just another think coming. It was made plain yesterday by Robert A. Brown, general chairman of the reunion committee, that there would be something doing at the soldiers' camp from early dawn to late in the evening.

The Birmingham committee has arranged 5,000 cots to be placed at the state fair grounds for the soldiers that will be the guests of the city in the full sense of that word. They will be camped in company formation and the whole plan will be in charge of Mrs. J. B. Reid, matron-in-charge. Mr. Brown said yesterday that he proposed to have a band concert for the veterans every afternoon and night. In addition there will be placed at the disposal of the veterans a very large and attractive dance hall where the old soldiers will be permitted to dance if they so desire. In addition, Mr. Brown said yesterday, that he was in communication with a vaudeville house and hoped to be able to engage several vaudeville artists to entertain the veterans after their luncheon at the fair grounds. By this plan Mr. Brown hopes to keep the veterans pretty well entertained. There will be some of the time when the old soldiers will be up town attending the meetings to be held at the Bijou theatre and also attending other entertainments which are to be arranged for the veterans. However, the plan now is to keep the veterans entertained from the time they hit the fair grounds until they return to their homes. To carry this plan out, Mr. Brown has notified the music committee that he will require the bands to render concerts at the state fair grounds for the veterans and has also notified others of his intention to make good on the official slogan, "Veterans first."

SUBSTITUTE FOR GLASS

As a substitute for glass in the equipment of automobiles and many other similar uses, a product has been brought out recently in Germany and is now being subjected to rigid tests in various shapes at the scene of war. It is known as "Celon," and has many remarkable qualities. It is also unbreakable by ordinary handling. Sheets of this material can be bent backward and forward many times without breaking; blocks of this transparent product can be subjected to blows without showing fractures; it can be produced in any desired thickness. Clear and completely transparent, light or dark colored, mottled or even black, it can be used for the celluloid. Its chief advantage over celluloid is its safety against fire.

Sir Thomas Salter Pyne, the latest recruit to join the British ministry of munitions, was formerly chief engineer to the governor of Afghanistan, and that part of his life reads like one of the romances of industry. A stray commission from his Lancashire employers took the young engineer to Afghanistan. On his arrival the ameer commissioned him to develop the mechanical side of his military resources. The result was immense. With 4,000 Afghan workers under him Salter Pyne erected enormous factories of guns, swords and ammunition. Not only was Pyne the ameer's furnisher of ordnance, clothier, stamp-maker, boot manufacturer, soap, boiler, tallow chandler and wheelwright.

MARINES LIKE GOOD BOOKS

Washington, D. C.—That the United States Marine is serious in his reading and does not care for the froth of modern fiction, is the report of barracks librarians for the year of 1915. Soundings taken of his literary tastes show "deep stuff" and no bottom, for Guizot's "History of Civilization" found greater favor with Marines than any other book in the various libraries of the Marine Corps.

Although thousands of volumes of featherweight "best sellers" teetered on the library shelves, the sea soldiers showed preference for works of purely historical or educational value and Shakespearean outdoor Marryat, while Fenimore Cooper ran a bad second to Oliver Goldsmith, the librarians say.

EAT HORSE FLESH

London, May 10.—A despatch from the British "eye witness" with the Mesopotamia forces gives a description of General Townshend's holding out against the Turks at Kut-el-Amara while on the verge of starvation. The men subsisted during the last fortnight on four ounces of flour daily and a ration of horse flesh.
